WASHINGTON, Friday, Oct. 13.

Judge WARDLAW, ALFRED HUGER, and Col. DAWKINS, of South Carolina, this afternoon had an interview, by appointment, with President JOHNSON. They were accompanied by W. H. TRESCOTT, Esq., who is here on business as executive agent of that State. The President, after the customary preliminaries of reception, invited them to be seated, when at once the conversation commenced by Judge WARDLAW informing him that they were a delegation from the State Convention of South Carolina, sent hither to present certain memorials of that body. These memorials had been very carefully considered in the convention, and he believed that they told exactly the truth. The President inquired the object of the memorials. Judge WARDLAW informed him that one of them was in behalf of JEFFERSON DAVIS, A. H. STEPHENS, GEORGE A. TRENHOLM, and GEO. MAGRATH. He said they had understood that by the late interference of the President, Messrs. STEPHENS and TRENHOLM had already been released from close confinement, and permitted to return to their homes. He would ask for GEORGE MAGRATH either a pardon or that he might be released on parole. They could assure the President that no harm would result from such an act of clemency.

The President replied that all could not be pardoned at once. The business must be proceeded with gradually, and an effort made to execute the law. A discrimination was necessary as we went along. It was a too common expression, by way of argument in regard to clemency, that such a one had been pardoned, and that he was just as bad as another who had not been pardoned.

Judge WARDLAW replied that the delegation presented no such argument as that.

The President said sometimes the peculiar locality had much to do with pardons. Like many other things in human affairs, we cannot have a fixed rule. Much depends on discretion and circumstances. If we know ourselves, we want to do what is best and just, and to show a proper degree of humanity on the part of the government.

Judge WARDLAW remarked that they had not come hither to express their own hopes and desires, but as delegates from the South Carolina Convention to present the memorials of that body in a formal manner.

The PRESIDENT—We will, gentlemen, extend all the facilities and courtesies which the questions require. We would prefer to pardon twenty men than to refuse one.

Judge WARDLAW replied that they did not design to say anything with reference to Gov. MAGRATH further than that they believed much good would result by the exercise of the Executive clemency toward him.

Col. DAWKINS said if we can get Gov. MAGRATH paroled, it would be a great relief to him at the present time.

Judge WARDLAW thanked the President for having released Messrs. STEPHENS and TRENHOLM.

The PRESIDENT—We have that far, then, anticipated your memorial.

Mr. HUGER said Mr. TRENHOLM was one of their most useful men, and there was no doubt he would exert all his power with a view to entire harmony between the State and the government.

The President replied that he understood that was so; adding, if treason was committed there ought to be some test to determine the power of the government to punish the crime. He was free to say that it was not a mere contest between political parties, or a question as to de facto governments. Looking at the government as we do, the laws violated and an attempt made at the life of the nation, there should be a vindication of the government and the constitution, even if the pardoning power were exercised thereafter. If treason has been committed, it ought to be determined by the highest tribunal, and the fact declared, even if clemency should come afterward. There was no malice or prejudice in carrying out that duty.

Judge WARDLAW remarked they were well aware of that.

The President, resuming, said there may be some unkind feeling on the subject, but it did not exist to any great extent.

Judge WARDLAW said although not instructed by the convention, he was induced to ask whether Mrs. JEFFERSON DAVIS, who was now confined to Georgia, could not cross into South Carolina to see her friends.

The President replied that he had received letters from Mrs. DAVIS, but they were not very commendable. The tone of one of them, however, was considerably improved, but the others were not of the character becoming one asking leniency.

Judge WARDLAW interposed by saying she was a woman of strong feeling.

The PRESIDENT—Yes; I suppose she is a woman of strong feeling and temper; but there is no intention to persecute her. There is as much magnanimity and independence and nobleness of spirit in submitting, as in trying to put the government at defiance. True magnanimity takes things as they are; and when taken in the proper way I disconnect them from humiliation. Manifestations of temper and defiance do no good.

Mr. HUGER remarked that they had a deep consciousness of the truth of all the President said.

The President, resuming, observed that the character of an individual may characterize a nation, which is nothing but an aggregate of individuals, and when a proper spirit is manifested, all can act harmoniously. The man who goes to the stake, is almost dignified by his bearing; it lifts him above humiliation. In these cases, gentlemen, we will do the best we can. While there is sympathy, there is a public judgment which must be met. But I assure you, gentlemen, no disposition exists for persecution, or thirst for blood.

Judge WARDLAW remarked that the tone of the newspapers was more favorable and different from what it was. He then asked if the President had seen a copy of the amended constitution of South Carolina. Of course he had seen that we accept emancipation. He felt perfectly satisfied that the person and property of the negro will be protected, and spoke of the great difficulties of regulating labor, and of restraining vagrancy, &c.

The President thought many of the evils would disappear if they inaugurated the right system. Pass laws protecting the colored man in his person and property, and he can collect his debts. He knew how it was in the South. The question when first presented, of putting a colored man in the witness stand, made them shrug their shoulders. But the colored man's testimony was to be taken for what it was worth by those who examine him and the jury who hear it. After all there was not so much danger as was supposed. Those coming out of slavery cannot do without work. They cannot lie down in dissipation; they must work. They ought to understand that liberty means simply the right to work and enjoy the products of labor, and that the laws protect them. That being done, and we come to the period to feel that men must work or starve, the country will be prepared to receive a system applicable to both white and black—prepared to receive a system necessary to the case. A short time back you could not enforce the vagrant law on the black, but could on the white man. But get the public mind right and you can treat both alike. Let us get the general principles, and the details and collaterals will follow.

A conversation of some length ensued between the President and Judge WARDLAW and Mr. TRESCOTT, as to the legislation of the State necessary in reference to the condition of the freedmen, and to the scope and consequences of the Circular No. 15 and General Orders No. 145, from the Adjutant-General's Department, relative to abandoned lands in South Carolina and other Southern States. The examination of these subjects, it is understood, is to be continued at another interview.

The President said: "We must be practical, and come up to surrounding circumstances."

Jude WARDLAW, Col. DAWKINS and Mr. HUGER, all expressed to the President their conviction that the State had accepted in good faith the result of the issue which had been made; that the people felt that the President had stood between them and a harsh use of the power of the government; that they felt entire confidence in his purposes and actions, and hoped in return to entitle themselves to his confidence as to their feelings and actions.

The President replied he was glad to hear it; that whenever such mutual confidence existed, there would, he thought, be an open road to the restoration of good feeling and a prosperous condition; and that, if he knew himself, and he thought he did, he would recommend nothing but what would advance their interests. So far from pandering or looking to future elevation, he must be believed when he said he had not an eye single to such preferment. If, he continued, I could be instrumental in restoring the government to its former relations, and see the people once more united and happy, I should feel that I had more than filled the measure of my ambition. If I could feel that I had contributed to this in any degree, my heart would be more than gratified, and my ambition full.

Judge WARDLAW—Every man in South Carolina would respond to that.

Mr. HUGER—I am sure there is on their part no Punic faith. They deserve your confidence, and I am sure they will earn it.

The President expressed himself gratified with what had been said by these gentlemen.

Mr. DAWKINS remarked that all South Carolina reposed confidence in the President, and that the memorials presented by the chairman of the delegation represented the true sentiments of the people of that State, both in regard to those whom they wished pardoned, and the feeling and position of South Carolina.

A DARING BURGLARY.

One of the boldest burglaries on record was perpetrated in Georgetown very early this morning. The office of Adams Express Company was entered by a back door, opened in a scientific manner, by professional burglars, the door of the safe drilled into and then blown off its hinges and into a dozen pieces, the concussion shattering the glass of the three large front windows into a thousand fragments, and waking up the people of the neighborhood; but before people or police got on the ground the burglars were off with a booty of four thousand dollars. During all these operations the gas was brightly burning. The safe stood but six feet from the window, which could be looked into by any passer-by. The young man whose business it was to sleep in the office was absent in the country, and the only occupants of the room were one big and five little dogs, whom the thieves put in the cellar. The burglars knew their business well and did it well.

IMPOSING ON THE FREEDMEN.

Intelligence has been received at the Freedmen's Bureau that certain slaveholders, still hostile to the interests of the freedmen, are endeavoring to make them believe that they can be apprenticed for seven years, receiving as compensation only their clothing and one dollar per year. The matter will be investigated.

THE GREAT NAVAL RACE.

This afternoon the Secretary of the Navy received a dispatch from the Board of Experts at New-York, stating that the trial between the Algonquin and Winooski will be resumed on Tuesday next. The whole affair will begin and proceed as though no trial had heretofore been attempted. Mr. DICKERSON protested against going on with the trial whilst the Algonquin remained in her present position at the wharf, and, therefore, it has been determined to give her the position now occupied by the Winooski.

FOUR HUNDRED PARDONS GRANTED.

The President to-day issued four hundred pardons for persons residing in the States of Louisiana, South Carolina, Georgia and Virginia.

ORDER ANNULLED.

The President of the United States has annulled the order, issued in the Department of the South recently, dismissing Lieut.-Col. GOUVERNEUR CARR, the commanding officer of the Second Duryea Zouaves, (One Hundred and Sixty-fifth New-York Volunteers,) because he refused to permit the colors of his regiment to be disgraced. The record of Lieut.-Col CARR during his four years' service, is one of the most honorable that has been attained by any officer of our army, by strict attention to duty and bravery in the field.

THE CHOLERA.

The Department of State has been officially informed that the cholera has almost entirely disappeared from Constantinople. The infection at Palma, the capital of the island of Majorca, appears in a very aggravated form, and seems to baffle human skill. Reports have reached Port Mahon that the disease is spreading into the interior of Spain. Intelligence from the Consul at Marseilles, France, is to the effect that this terrific disease is frightfully on the increase there. Eighty thousand citizens have left the city, and the deaths now average between 50 and 60 per day.

THE WIRZ TRIAL.

The testimony in the Wirz case on both sides will probably be concluded to-morrow, so far as it immediately affects the prisoner. But the government will in addition introduce testimony of a general character bearing on the general charge of conspiracy.

MAIL SERVICE IN THE PACIFIC STATES.

The Postmaster General invites proposals for mail service in California, Nevada, Oregon, and the Territories of Washington, Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New-Mexico. These bids may be deposited in the contract office until Feb. 28, 1866, and are to be decided by the 14th of March, the service to be from July 1, 1866, to June 30, 1870.

NAVAL INTELLIGENCE.

The Malvern, flagship of the Atlantic Squadron, arrived at the Navy-yard this morning with Commodore WM. RADFORD on board, to whom Commodore MONTGOMERY turned over the command of the Navy-yard to-day.

GEN. GRANT IN WASHINGTON.

Gen. GRANT and family arrived this morning from Philadelphia, and will make their future residence at the pleasant mansion on Georgetown Heights. Col. E. S. PARKER, of the General's staff, also arrived this morning, after a prolonged absence on the business of the Indian Commission.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

The receipts of internal revenue to-day were seven hundred and twenty-four thousand five hundred and sixty-nine dollars and thirty-nine cents.

PERSONAL.

Col. HORACE A. HUTCHINS, of Ohio, one of the most efficient Paymasters in the United States Army, has resigned.

THE WIRZ MILITARY COMMISSION.

More Letters from Capt. Wirz.

The Wirz Military Commission reassembled this morning.

Mr. Schade read two letters from the letter-book of Capt. Wirz.

One of these letters, dated December, 1864, is addressed to Assistant Quartermaster Neely, and says that he (Wirz) had received eighteen packages of clothing for the Federal prisoners, including blankets, shoes, pants, sacks and shirts, and that he would proceed to distribute them without delay.

The other letter, dated Jan. 29, 1865, was addressed to Assistant Adjutant Thomas, asking that the guard to escort men gathering wood be increased from 25 to 60 men.

Benjamin F. Lilley, of Pennsylvania, testified that he was Admitting Clerk in Capt. Wirz's office, and his business was when prisoners arrived to make out the descriptive roll. He was also a ward master, having charge of 150 men and 20 nurses; there was much trading in hams, pork, bacon, flour, meal, peanuts, sweet potatoes, cigars, tobacco, &c.; clothes were taken from the dead by our own men and sold to the rebels. Witness never heard of the stocks being inside the stockade; Confederates as well as Yankees were forbidden to wash in the stream; Capt. Wirz made an ineffectual effort to impress 500 slaves for the purpose of enlarging the stockade, and our own men refused to work for fear of compromising themselves.

Among other things, the witness said that Capt. Wirz condemned rice and corn bread, remarking that he would not feed his negroes on them, and that the men who sent the corn meal to Andersonville should be court-martialed, as they were robbing their own government. Capt. Wirz was sick during August, and off and on in July.

Witness never heard of Capt. Wirz shooting or beating prisoners so that they died, nor did he ever hear of furloughs being given to Confederate soldiers for shooting prisoners.

Cross-examined—Witness made application to Capt. Wirz to be detailed as a clerk, having been sick with diarrhea; Wirz was a very excitable, cross old fellow, and therefore he did not have much to do with him; in May, he asked Dr. White to vaccinate him for the small-pox, but the doctor intimated that the matter was impure, and said he expected to procure good matter from the arm of a child in the country; the small-pox was prevailing in that same month; witness said that the capital for trading purposes was limited to the "Raiders;" there were five hundred of them, who would knock down the prisoners and rob them of their money; after Wirz had packed the men thick in the stockade, some of them came out and helped to enlarge it; there was no difficulty in finding tools to build the fortifications, but there was a scarcity of them to improve the stockade; Wirz gave orders against the Confederate soldiers trading with our men for clothing, but the witness did not know that persons were threatened for doing so as was threatened; Duncan and others committed the robbery of commissary goods; it was against the orders of Capt. Wirz to trade, and therefore it was carried on secretly.

Direct examination—The treatment of prisoners was better at Andersonville than at Belle Isle, as at the latter place men were starved to death.

By the Court—Witness made money by trading in greenbacks and Confederate money; he started in business by selling his overcoat for twenty-five dollars; he bought greenbacks for three or five dollars inside and sold them outside at from eight to ten; he also kept a sutler's store, and thus made some of his money.

Maj.-Gen. Wallace asked numerous questions of the witness, to which the latter replied that Capt. Wirz did not give him any extraordinary privileges more than he did to eight or ten other clerks; he was allowed to go a mile in the country from the prisont; trading was contrary to orders to make money and he made it mostly from our own men; all suffered in the stockade for the want of food, and he had seen men die in consequence.

By Mr. Baker—Witness came away from Andersonville with one hundred and forty-five dollars in greenbacks, and a forty-five-dollar watch.

Judge-Advocate Chipman then proceeded to examine the witness, who said he had seen Duncan speculating in stolen whisky and other things. Duncan knocked down and struck a couple of prisoners, and would seize men in the middle of the night and place them in the stocks.

Mr. Baker objected to the examination proceeding as to Duncan.

The court overruled the objection, and one of the members of the court said that the court was trying for conspiracy.

The examination of the witness was then resumed.

Witness said that Duncan and his right-hand man, Richey, reported the tunnels, and they would advise Wirz what should be done to men for such and such things; witness on two different occasions saw Dr. Mudd hold his thumb on an artery, and while the amputation operator was tying the artery, the doctor would remove his thumb and let the blood spurt in the operator's face, and the doctor would laugh as if it was something funny; Dr. Carr, a rebel steward, would come into the hospital disguised as one of our own men, sometimes in a good and at other times in a bad uniform; witness saw him twice strike men over the face with his heavy pistol, for talking with the guard; that doctor robbed a sick man of his buttons; vegetables were also stolen from the sick.

Cross-examined by Mr. Baker—Witness saw Duncan take the whisky; he had heard Duncan advise Wirz to punish with bucking, and the ball and chain, the men who had spoken favorably of Gen. Fremont and Old Abe.

Mr. Baker said he had two more witnesses to be examined, but owing to sickness, they could not attend to-day. One of them covered the whole subject of Andersonville.

Col. Chipman remarked that the prosecution was also nearly through with its witnesses.

F. W. Hille was called for the prosecution, to impeach the testimony of George W. Fechnor.

Col. Chipman asked the witness whether he knew of Fechnor refusing to giving dying men food.

Mr. Baker objected.

Col. Chipman said that Fechnor, alias "Baron Munchausen," swore that he never saw any of the prisoners die, and that he never refused to give them food.

Mr. Baker remarked: Let Fechnor's testimony be read, that it may be known from the record what he did say.

Major-Gen. Wallace coincided in the view of Mr. Baker.

Col. Chipman said he wanted to show that men died before the face of Fechnor, who refused to give them anything to eat; and also, that Fechnor was a gambler and a rough generally.

Mr. Baker replied that the fact that Fechnor did not assist the prisoners and was a gambler did not affect his credibility. He insisted that the record of the testimony must be referred to for the points which the prosecution wanted to contradict.

Col. Chipman, referring to the records, asked numerous questions of the witness, who contradicted Fechnor's testimony in the following particulars:

That Fechnor, contrary to his own statements, was a gambler, and everybody called him a mean man, and that he fleeced or cheated the prisoners out of their money. As an instance, a starving man, craving for something to eat, was compelled to give a twenty-five dollar watch to Fechnor for two dollars, for which sum Fechnor sold him six small cakes for twenty-five cents a piece and an ounce of butter. Fechnor had a board with numbers up to nine upon it, where men gambled, and he was also in partnership with a sutler. Fechnor was the chief of the "Regulators," who, after the six "raiders" were hanged, robbed and stole more than the "raiders" themselves; so far from Fechnor giving food to hungry men, the witness said that a man was lying near Fechnor's shanty, in a starving condition, and on having been appealed to, that the man might be furnished with food, Fechnor remarked: "Let him die; I don't care;" the man died.

Col. Chipman asked the witness what was the character of Fechnor's partner?

Mr. Baker objected.

The court said it was not a question.

Col. Chipman would then waive it. He only wanted to show that "birds of a feather would flock together."

Mr. Baker—But the birds were obliged to be at Andersonville.

Cross-examined—Witness lived in Philadelphia, and was at Andersonville from June to September, 1864; he was often in Fechnor's shop or shanty, which contained onions, tobacco, eggs, cheese, butter, and many other things; Fechnor was known by that name, and not as Ross; the sign on the shanty was Fechnor & Co.

The court then adjourned until to-morrow.

The Virginia Election.

RICHMOND, Friday, Oct. 13.

The returns are favorable to the election of CHARLES L. MOSBY, the eligible candidate of the Fifth (Lynchburgh) District. JOEL H. HOGUE is probably elected in the Eighth District. The constitutional amendment is adopted by an almost unanimous vote. It removes disability from holding office as applicable to those who prominently participated in the rebellion.

The General Convention of the Episcopal Church.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, Oct. 13.

The General Convention of the Episcopal Church reassembled to-day.

The collect for the burial service was read in reference to the death of Rev. LOT JONES of New-York.

The Committee on the Prayer-Book, to whom was referred the several propositions to correct the punctuation and reading of the Prayer-Book, reported that there was such a want of conformity in the various editions issued for a long series of years, that it was impossible for them to make any recommendations; but they would offer a resolution to appoint a joint committee on a standard prayer-book, to act during the recess.

The Committee on Metrical Psalms and Hymns made a report omitting certain hymns and psalms.

The military canon was made the order of the day for Saturday noon.

A resolution to consider and report upon the expediency of inserting in the prayer for Congress a petition in behalf of State Legislatures when in session, was referred to the Committee on Prayer Book.

Rev. Mr. CORNWALL offered the following:

Whereas, In the Preface of the Book of Common Prayer, it is said that the attention of this Church was in the first place drawn to the alterations in the Liturgy which became necessary in the prayers for our civil rulers, in consequence of the revolution, and the principal case herein was to make them conformable to what ought to be the proper end of all such prayers, namely, that rulers may have grace, wisdom and understanding, to execute justice, to maintain the truth, and that the people may lead quiet and peaceable lives in all godliness and honesty; and whereas no such prayer was set forth in the daily morning and evening prayers; therefore

Resolved, That the House of Bishops be requested to prepare the prayer contemplated in the Preface to the Book of Common Prayer, and to make it as full and exact as may be with the Apostolic Exhortation; that supplications, prayers, intercessions and giving of thanks be made for all men; for Kings and all that are in authority, that we may lead a good and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty.

Resolved, That this prayer, when approved by both houses of the General Convention, shall be sent to the dioceses, and when ratified as provided in the article of the constitution, shall be substituted in the Book of Common Prayer for the prayer now in use for the President of the United States and all in civil authority.

On motion of Dr. CUMMINS it was laid on the table.

Adjourned.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

EIGHTH WARD DIVERSIONS.—Late last evening a drunken dispute occurred between HENRY GERKEN and his mother, ANNA GERKEN, in her disreputable house on the southwest corner of Prince and Mercer streets, and in a scuffle young GERKEN's pistol, which was in his coat pocket, was discharged, and he was wounded in the left leg. Hearing the report, and not knowing whence it came, GERKEN drew his revolver and discharged it thrice at random, wounding his mother and one GEORGE HILLEN, a German, who keeps a grocery in the basement of the building. A bullet entered Mrs. GERKEN's nose, and, glancing off, lodged in her cheek. HILLEN also was wounded in the cheek. Policeman ANDREW P. TUTHILL, having been summoned, arrested the party and took them to the Eighth Precinct Police-station, where, after Dr. FRELIGH had dressed their wounds, GERKEN and HILLEN were committed for the night. Capt. MILLS sent Mrs. GERKEN to the New-York Hospital. In MARY ANN SHAW's brothel, in Greene-street, last evening, a youth who renders the name of HORATIO F. JONES, telegraph operator, quarreled with MARY ANN JOHNSON, one of the feminine boarders, and thrust her through one of the front windows. One of her legs was severely cut by the glass, but she sustained no other injury. Patrolman JOHN CROWN arrested JONES, and took him to the Wooster-street Police-station, and there the female's wound was dressed by Dr. FRELIGH.

THE TUNISIAN EMBASSY.—The members of the Embassy and suite visited the Custom-house yesterday, accompanied by Consul PERRY and several other gentlemen. They were first introduced to Mr. ODELL, and were then conducted to the Collector's office, where they had quite a long interview with Mr. KING. After being shown through the various departments, it was explained to them that more than a thousand men are employed in the revenue service, and that the duties collected here on importations amount to nearly half a million dollars a day, and this sum is levied upon goods worth about a million and a quarter, which is the average value of the daily arrivals of merchandise. The visitors expressed great surprise at the extent of our commerce, which exceeded all their previous calculations. They appeared to be much pleased with their reception and the attention shown them. They returned to their hotel about 3 P. M. Last night they left the city on a visit to Niagara Falls, taking the People's Line of steamboats to Troy. They are expected to be absent until the middle of next week. They will be accompanied by Mr. PERRY and family.

IMPROVEMENT AT THE POST-OFFICE.—The department for the sale of United States postage stamps in sums of one dollar and upward, and of stamped envelopes, &c., will be removed next week from the upper and rear part of the post-office building, where it has long been situated, to the Nassau-street side of the post-office extension. The new stamp window will be near the windows at which stamps in sums less than one dollar are now sold; and some alteration of the partitions have been made, so that the public will be accommodated with greater facility than heretofore.

HAWKINS' ZOUAVE MILITIA REGIMENT.—This regiment is now recruited up to the minimum number, and they will complete their organization by electing their field officers in the latter part of the coming week, when they will receive their order for uniforms, arms, equipments, &c. Those men who have signed the regimental rolls, and have not been mustered, likewise those who intend to connect themselves with the organization, are requested to report immediately at headquarters, corner of Broome and Mercer streets.

NEW-YORK POST-OFFICE VS. BROOKLYN POST-OFFICE.

The return game between the employes of the New-York and Brooklyn Post-offices, which was played at Bedford, on the Capitoline grounds, Tuesday afternoon, resulted in favor of the Brooklyn Club, on a score of 29 to 25. But seven innings were played, on account of the darkness, game being called on the eight inning, after the New-Yorkers had made eight runs, with two hands lost. All the play of the Brooklyn nine exhibited considerable knowledge of the game, particularly WAGGONER at first and DUNN at second. The New-Yorkers all did well, with the exception of DUSENBURY and YEOMAN. Quite a number of the attaches of the two post-offices were present with their lady friends, and when the game became tedious, they improvised another ball ground and had a muffin match, while the ladies, not to be outdone by their "mail" friends, had a quiet game of "croquet" all to themselves, which they seemed to enjoy hugely.

ACTIVE VS. EUREKA.

The home-and-home game between the Actives, of New-York, and the Eurekas, of New-York, laid over from 1864, will be played on the Capitoline grounds, at Bedford, on Friday, 20th inst.

SPIRIT OF THE SOUTH.

Political and Industrial Condition and Prospects of Georgia.

Feeling of the People—Sentiment Towards the Negroes—Their Rights to be Protected—Prospective Taxation.

From Our Special Correspondent.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Thursday, Oct. 5, 1865.

A recent tour through the most populous districts of this State, having been and talked with men of all classes and opinions, has enabled me to form a well-founded judgment as to the condition of the people, their hopes and intentions. Everywhere the desolating effects of the war may be seen, whether within or without the track of the contending armies. Even where traces of fire and sword are not to be seen, the painful evidences of neglected husbandry, ruined industry, nay, want, are to be found. But, notwithstanding this, there seems to be a universal effort to clear the wreck and begin anew, with unmistakable manifestations of an honest desire to bear uncomplainingly the losses incurred, and accept in good faith the allotted destiny with all its new obligations and restrictions. Already in the principal towns and cities great progress has been made toward the revival of trade and industrial enterprise. Night and day the bricklayer, the carpenter, and the blacksmith are plying their trades, transforming blackened ruins into commodious stores and dwellings. The railroad depots are filled to repletion with goods, wares and merchandise, on their way to market, or coming from the North to restock the shelves which have been empty for four years. Every one who has a little capital, however small, is eager to "go into business," in the hope of recuperating his fortunes; and many a man who, before the war, only knew business by his factor's yearly accounts, is now earnestly seeking patronage as commission merchant, agent, broker, &c., wanting nothing but work, casting no lingering looks behind, making no unmanly complaints, and determined, without equivocation or mental reservation, to fulfill to the letter the obligations incurred on the renewal of his allegiance to the United States. There may be, and there are, doubtless, exceptions; but they are very few, and of no prominence or influence. Whatever may be said or written to the contrary, it is positively true that an overwhelming majority of the people of Georgia have honestly, and in perfect good faith, renewed their fidelity to the Constitution of the United States; and that with equal sincerity they will keep their pledges in reference to the emancipation of the negroes.

It is to be expected that in regard to this last-mentioned subject there should be a very general opinion as to the impolicy of so suddenly setting the negroes free, not merely from the economical losses which it has occasioned, but from the apprehension of disturbance of social order. But while this furnishes matter of discussion and conjecture the great fact that slavery is dead, never to be revived, is universally accepted. All the planters with whom I have any acquaintance, or of whom I have heard, have made fair, and in many instances, liberal contracts with their former slaves, in some cases paying monthly wages with clothes, medical attendance, and the usual rations, but generally paying in produce, or rather a share of the crop gathered. There is a general disposition also to pass such laws as will fully protect the freedmen in their persons and property, removing all the disabilities under which they labored as slaves, and granting them all the privileges enjoyed by the white man, except the suffrage. The opposition to giving negroes the right to vote is universal. I do not know of one man in favor of it. Considerable apprehension is felt on this subject. It is feared that Congress will make this a sine qua non to the restoration of the State to her place in the Union, and that the progress of reconstruction, and removal of harmonious relations may be thus impeded. In every other respect the freedman will be protected in his intellectual and physical efforts to elevate himself in the social scale, and every privilege will be given him which the man of color is permitted to enjoy by the laws of Illinois or Massachusetts. The experiment of free labor will, I have generally observed, be fairly and patiently tested. There are many sanguine that it will succeed, and that under it the production of the great staples of the South will be as abundant and as remunerative as ever. There are others, and they are not few, who seriously doubt this, and who believe that the constitutional sloth, improvidence, and disregard of all moral and social obligations which characterize the negroes, will incapacitate them, when relieved from compulsion, for the regular and continuous labor essential to the successful cultivation of the soil in this climate. Some believing this have sent to Germany and Ireland for laborers, with the intention of giving them small farms out of the plantations, the yearly rent of which will be paid in labor. Others speak of abandoning the culture of cotton and cereals, and of turning their plantations into stock farms, where the necessary labor would be so much smaller than is now required. Negro labor, however, must and will be that generally employed; and I believe, that with judicious and patient management, it will prove successful. At present there is a widely diffused impression among the freedmen that at Christmas the government will divide the plantations among them, and that every negro will receive forty acres of land, a home, stock and farming implements, to be taken from the properties of their late masters. No assurance to the contrary by the military authorities in the State seems able to dissipate this belief. Hundreds of them within the last week have told me as a reason why they will not make any contract beyond Christmas, that they expect to "get a house and lot of their own," at that time. When they find that this is not so, they will become more settled, and much of the vagrancy and crime which are now to be found in and about the towns and cities will, I think, be done away with, and the prospects of the future of labor brighten considerably. This uncertainty, the general want of capital, the widespread impoverishment of the people, the prospect of heavy taxation to pay the interest of the national debt, and the dread of what Congress will do, press heavily on the rising energies of the people; but with all this, the feeling is hopeful, and confidence is generally felt that when the people of the North see and are assured that the submission of the South is honest, that they acquiesce without arrière pensée in the emancipation of the negroes, a helping hand will be extended toward them, and that the object of the conquerors will be to restore and not further punish. Especially is confidence felt in the wisdom, generosity, and fairness of President JOHNSON. Everywhere is heard the exclamation, "Everything depends upon the life of ANDREW JOHNSON." Thus far his policy has certainly tended to the restoration of harmony and hopeful effort, and a general disposition is manifested to give his administration a cordial and earnest support.

The taxation which, both directly and indirectly, must inevitably be imposed on and paid by the South to liquidate the interest of the national debt, at this moment of impoverishment and uncertainty, alarms and depresses the people. Some hope that sooner or later the scaling process will be applied to the debt; and while none favor repudiation, many are of opinion that the value in gold of the security the day it was acquired is as much as the people ought to be expected to pay. The truth is, the debt, with all its attendant burdens, is yet, so far as the South is concerned, a thing unfelt and unseen, but regarded as a calamity which must be borne. If patience and forbearance are exercised as to the amount and time of payment of taxes, there will be no difficulty. To enforce their payment now would be virtual confiscation, when men accounted rich in former days are unable to visit their plantations on account of want of means to pay their fare on the railroads. I think a strong effort will be made by the State Legislature to consign the debt contracted by the State during the war to the same fathomless abyss into which the Confederate debt was so suddenly hurled. It was certainly profligately incurred, and more profligately expended, and is now chiefly held by the shoddy contractors, who abounded here as well as at the North.

The election for delegates to the State Convention takes place to-day. As a general rule the candidates are conservative men anxious to promote harmony and to restore the State to her civil rights. The session of this body is not expected to be long. The repeal of the secession ordinance, the adoption of the State Constitution, (the old one made applicable to altered circumstances,) redistricting the State and providing for the election of Governor, Legislature and delegation to Congress, will, it is supposed, be the sum of their labors, leaving the new legislation to the State Legislature, which will meet as early as practicable. Hon. CHAS. JENKINS, Judge of the Supreme Court, as delegate from Richmond County, and a resident of this city, will, it is believed, be the President of the convention.

POLITICAL.

INSPECTORS OF REGISTRY AND OF ELECTIONS.

The Metropolitan Police Commissioners have been diligently employed nearly two months in securing proper polling places, and competent and trustworthy inspectors and canvassers of election. They have made selections for inspectors; but their list of canvassers is yet incomplete. A glance at the list, which the commissioners submit with a card below, will show that not a single poll is to be held in a liquor-store, and that very few dealers in liquors have been selected for election duty—a circumstance that was never before recorded of a New-York election. The following is the commissioners'

NOTICE:

By the first section of chapter 740 of the laws of 1865, (the new registry law) it is provided that vacancies occurring in the office of Inspectors of Registry and of Elections shall be immediately filled by the Board of Metropolitan Police.

In order that this duty may be promptly performed the Board of Metropolitan Police desire the Inspectors of Registry and of Elections of the several districts of the city, (and any citizen cognizant of the fact) to give prompt information of every such vacancy occurring in any district to the Board of Metropolitan Police, at the Central Department, No. 300 Mulberry-st. Careful attention to this request will be the means of avoiding difficulties, delays and irregularities.

The filling of vacancies on election day is provided for by the same section, in the following language: "In case, on the day of election, any Inspector or Canvasser shall, for any reason, fail to appear, his place may be supplied in the manner now provided by law."

If it is within the knowledge of any citizen that any of the persons appointed as Inspectors of Registry and of Election or Canvassers are ineligible to hold such office, the Board of Metropolitan Police desire to be promptly informed of the grounds of objection, to the end that the error may be corrected.

By order of the board.

S. C. HAWLEY, Chief Clerk.

WHAT AMERICAN SOLDIERS DO WHEN "LET LOOSE."—Within the last few months we have seen that take place which Europeans so greatly dreaded in our interest—the "turning loose" upon the country of seven or eight or nine hundred thousand men accustomed to the use of arms. It had been settled by our foreign friends, that these desperate men were to play havoc as soon as they were let loose. They were to put at their head some great chieftain or other, seize the reins of government, and give the wretched populace a taste of military rule. They were to inaugurate a reign of universal plunder, and establish war as a fixed institution.

They have been let loose in large bodies and in small bodies, in the West and in the East. They were let loose after the achievement of resplendent victories. When let loose, they were allowed, upon easy conditions, to carry their arms with them. There were no restraints laid upon them when they were let loose. And, strange to say, though they have been loose for some time, and though more and more of them are continually being let loose, they have not seized the reins of government, or organized riotings, or plundered the people, or invaded Mexico, or shown any belligerency of disposition whatever; but, on the contrary, have quietly returned to their old occupations as farmers and merchants, and mechanics, and doctors, and lawyers. They take an active interest in politics just like others, and are not averse to office, as is perfectly proper.' In the community they are undistinguishable from the stay-at-homes, and are only known in their respective circles by the possession of those nobler qualities which spring from a career of self-sacrifice, patriotism and duty. Only a few months ago wise Europe shook its head when we told them that all this would be realized.

The President and the Union Party.

The insolence with which the Democratic leaders in this State claim the support of President JOHNSON is simply astounding. We are pretty well hardened to all sorts of misrepresentation at the hands of Democratic partisans, but this caps the climax. Without the slightest warrant in anything he has said or done, they coolly assume, and assure their followers, that President JOHNSON is about to turn his back upon the party which nominated and elected him, whose principles he cordially indorsed, who carried the war against rebellion to a successful close, and upon whom alone he can now depend for support, and take into his exclusive favor the party which has denounced him without measure all through the war, and from whom he has never received a vote or a voice in praise of his character or in support of his policy.

In all these assertions, so boldly put forth and constantly reiterated, there is not the slightest foundation in anything President JOHNSON has done or said, in public or in private, since his accession to the Presidency. When JOHN TYLER deserted the party that made him President, he began by dismissing the Cabinet of his predecessor and replacing the office-holders of his appointment. President JOHNSON has done nothing of the sort. He has made no change in his Cabinet. He has appointed but one Democrat to office, and that was a personal friend and a man of thoroughly loyal antecedents. Every change he has made anywhere, has been in favor of the party and the men who were most active and effective in sustaining the Administration throughout the war. Not a Copperhead nor an adherent of the Democratic organization, with the single exception we have referred to, has received an appointment however humble, at his hands. Does this look like courting the favor, or seeking the support of the Democratic party at the expense of the great Union organization which has carried the country through the war?

On the contrary, look at the appointments made since his accession to office in every department of the public service. Look at the selections for office in Boston and in this city. Vice-President HAMLIN, Mr. GOOCH, R. H. DANA, for Boston; PRESTON KING and DANIEL S. DICKINSON for New-York,—all Republicans and thorough-going Union men, as are all he has appointed anywhere,—and say if this looks like turning his back on the Union party?

Nor has President JOHNSON said a syllable on any occasion, or to anybody, to encourage any such expectation or belief. Every public address he has made has been in exactly the opposite direction. Whenever he has said anything on the subject of the war, it has been in denunciation of treason, and of all who sympathized with or aided it. Whenever he has spoken of slavery, he has insisted upon the ratification of the constitutional amendment, against which the party now claiming his support has always arrayed itself in solid column. While he tells the people of the South that they must ratify it, the Democrats of New-Jersey are straining every nerve to defeat it. While he tells the South to nominate for Congress none but men who can take the oath required by law, the Democrats are demanding its repeal. While he is speaking words of hope and encouragement to the enfranchised slaves, the Democrats are denouncing the negro and branding as fanatics every man who seeks for them justice and equal rights. And while they are asserting roundly and loudly that Mr. JOHNSON has declared that this is "the white man's country"—he contradicts the falsehood by telling the negroes, openly and in person, that "it is their country as much as anybody else's country." In all this what possible ground do they find for their clamorous claims that President JOHNSON has abandoned the Union party and belongs to them?

Nor is there the slightest foundation for the insinuations in which the Democratic organs so freely indulge, that President JOHNSON has communicated privately to them his wish that the Democratic party in this State, or in any other, may succeed at the coming election. JOHN VAN BUREN gives out mysterious hints of what was said to him by the President on that subject,—but he is not in the habit of keeping secret private conversations with him, or with anybody else, when he can make anything by repeating them. The Tribune was good enough to report something which the President was supposed to have said to DEAN RICHMOND on the subject, and the World expended over a column in the effort to make its Democratic readers believe that Mr. JOHNSON gave its editor some very significant and encouraging hints upon this subject. Now, in reply to all this, we assert, and not without warrant, that President JOHNSON has never, in conversation with JOHN VAN BUREN, with DEAN RICHMOND, or with anybody else, ever said anything indicating, directly or indirectly, any wish or hope that the Democratic party might carry the State this Fall. On the contrary, we know that he takes a decided interest in the success of the Union ticket, and would feel its failure to be a great misfortune to the country and to his Administration.

We say this now because we feel it to be due, not only to the Union party of the State, but also to President JOHNSON himself. We have not said it before, because we did not deem it possible that any party could persist in such a preposterous and unprecedented style of warfare as the Democratic leaders are pursuing. But it seems to be their whole stock in trade. Not content with pretending to support President JOHNSON himself, they are determined to drive every Union man away from him by these wholesale and outrageous misrepresentations. Indeed their main anxiety is to deprive him of the support of those who have been his only friends hitherto, and to reduce him to dependence solely and exclusively on the hypocritical and venal friendship which they pretend to offer. They mistake his character as much as they mistake the temper and intelligence of the people whom they seek to mislead.

The New-Jersey Election.

There is every reason to hope and believe that New-Jersey is prepared, at last, to wheel into line and join the ranks of the Union army. Our friends have been making a gallant fight throughout the canvass, and with great confidence in their success. The extent to which the Democratic majority was reduced, in the election last Fall, the return of the soldiers, and the improved tone of public sentiment, led them to believe that a vigorous and steady effort, on the heels of the glorious victory over the rebellion, would place the State on the side of the Administration.

The election in Newark gives a splendid indication of coming success. There was every reason why the Democrats should carry it. Gen. RUNYON, their candidate for Governor, was Mayor of that city, and had complete control of the police, and a commanding influence in every department of the government. He was elected last year by over eight hundred majority, but his party were defeated now by nearly a thousand. There is nothing to account for this but a marked change in public sentiment; and there is everything to indicate that this change has been quite as marked in every other part of the State as in Newark.

The fact is that in New-Jersey, more perhaps than elsewhere, slavery has hitherto been the great bond which has held the people to the Democratic party. Not that they loved slavery per se, but they did not believe we had anything to do with it and that it was a question exclusively for the Southern States. But now slavery is dead; and when they see every Southern State ready to ratify the Constitutional Amendment and to abandon slavery forever, they see no reason why they should lag so far and so absurdly behind the rest of the world. Then, too, they have in MARCUS L. WARD a strong and popular candidate for Governor, and the canvass has been conducted with great spirit and energy from the very beginning. The Union party was never more thoroughly organized than it is at present.

This effort will be continued. The Union men of the State will push on the contest till the very close, and will receive, we do not doubt, such aid as they may need from other quarters. The result promises to be a brilliant and beneficent victory.

The Registry of Votes.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A dispute has arisen between me and some of my friends concerning the Registry Law, as pertaining to us in the city. I claim that every voter will have to go personally to the place of registry and give in his name; that there is no copying from old registers. They contend that they don't need to go—that their names will be copied from the old registers. This is regarded by me as a serious error, and one very prevalent.

ONE WHO WISHES SUCCESS TO THE GOOD CAUSE.

Our correspondent is right. Every man who expects and wishes to vote on the day of election must see that his name is registered. No votes will be received that are not registered. And old registers will not be referred to, nor will a registry of any former election avail anything now. This is a matter of special importance, and should command the immediate attention of every voter.

DRY HUMOR AT THE DRY TORTUGAS.—The pathos of Mr. EDMAN SPANGLER's letter from Fort Jefferson, Tortugas Island, is relieved by touches of that humor which always lurks in the expression of deep feeling, and makes the wit's melancholy electric with laughter. This pleasant letter-writer, after giving some unknown friend an affecting sketch of life at the Dry Tortugas, (which is scarcely attractive in its general features,) protests his innocence of complicity with BOOTH in the murder of the President. In his quaint manner, he says: "He asked me to see to his horses, wich I did he said that he would make me a hansom present, wich he did, six years on the Iland of Dry Tortugas." After which follows more protestations of innocence, and a closing prayer for fish-hooks and postage stamps, that a guiltless sufferer may take fish from his prison window, and write letters to "inquiring friends."

We certainly hope that his correspondent's answer inclosed Mr. SPANGLER the desired variety; if it did not, we trust that the fish-hooks and postage stamps will be furnished by government to its victim at the Dry Tortugas. There is every reason to suppose that we have another great American humorist in those desolate parts, who, with opportunity for letter-writing, and stamps for posting his compositions, would win from Artemus Ward and Josh Billings the laurels they have achieved by laborious bad spelling. Mr. SPANGLER's orthography has the ease and naturalness of an inspiration, and there is something even wittier in him than his misspelling. The similarity between his former pursuits and those of the well-known Bard of Avon, of course suggests itself to the cultivated mind; both held horses before theatres in early life; and as SHAKESPEARE afterward became a dramatic poet of no little merit, there is fair reason to suppose that Mr. SPANGLER's promise may be ripened into something very creditable to our literature.

Various attempts to found a humorous paper have failed in this metropolis; Mrs. Grundy, the cause of much wit in others, was the last of these melancholy defeats, and her ghost may now be bought of newsboys for two-pence. Mrs. Nickleby discovered that it was something in the leather whichd le to the frequent suicide of French cobblers; we suspect that it is something in the diet of New-York which disagrees with wit and brings it to a suicidal end. Now why should not the next humorous journal be started at the Dry Tortugas, under the charge of Mr. EDMAN SPANGLER? According to his account these islands are "a pretty hard place to live, the sun is very hot and whe have hard grub, salt horse and one piece of bred, whe sometimes gets soup." Yet this diet is wholesome in its effects upon the mind; the atmosphere of the islands braces the faculties, and there must be a good deal of original taleng amont the 500 prisoners there. The possibility of a brilliantly successful satirical journal in those parts is at least worth the experiment, and it is worth while to encourage if only for the hope that the sick wit of the metropolis, which so long languished here, may be induced to emigrate to the Dry Tortugas.

OUR FUTURE ARMY.—The new order for military reduction just issued by the Lieut.-General, is of a sweeping character, and quite justifies the opinions of those who had thought that GRANT's designs for a permanent army were of the most moderate character. Two lines sweep out of the service all volunteer cavalry east of the Mississippi River. A short sentence provides for the garrisoning by colored troops of all sea-coast forts south of Fortress Monroe, with two exceptions, and orders the mustering out of all other colored troops as fast as they can be dispensed with. Other sections of the General Order make provision for the garrisoning of the Northern forts by small detachments of regular infantry or artillery. Nothing is said about the regiments of the Veteran Reserve Corps, from which it may be inferred that the Lieutenant-General is waiting until it shall be seen what action the forthcoming Congress will take in reference to the retention of that body.

The country will not forget that this action of the Lieutenant-General, by which the military power is reduced to the smallest limits, and by which the expenses of the government and the taxation of the people are greatly reduced, has been rendered possible only by the wise and conciliatory policy of the President toward the Southern States, which has entirely allayed the rebellious spirit and produced profound peace between all parties and races.

POLITICAL ADVISERS.—The Albany Argus copies the following piece of advice from the New Nation, a weekly paper edited by a French radical:

> THE WORD OF COMMAND—"Stack arms, radicals, and stop voting. * * * At all events, to abstain from voting, for a boy Secretary of State will not jeopardize the cause of Union liberty. Let us recuperate, in calmness, for the future."

The "boy Secretary of State" was man enough on the field of battle. No one ever found him doing anything but a man's work there. None of the brave fellows who followed him in the desperate charges of the war ever feared he would flinch or hesitated to rush by his side into the thickest and deadliest of the fight. We are inclined to think he will be quite up to the work of Secretary of State. The "radicals" will find it a good deal more difficult to "recuperate in calmness for the future," if he is elected than if they defeat him. The advice of the Argus is not particularly disinterested.

A HAPPY SOLUTION OF THE KENTUCKY DIFFICULTIES.—The President has settled the difficulty about military commanders in Kentucky, which has been the cause of such great uproar for a long time, by abolishing martial law in the State. It now makes but little difference whether Gen. PALMER or any other General is nominally in command; for the innumerable questions arising about slavery and negroes, about contumacious parsons, treasonable language, bilious graybacks, and so forth, will not come under military jurisdiction. Civil law and civil officers will henceforth be dominant, and whether or not they always operate with a promptitude and rigor equal to the military authorities, there is no doubt that they will act more to the public satisfaction, and more favorably to the restoration of of that contented and fraternal feeling which it is now President JOHNSON's great object to foster.

Destitution in the South.

A very general impression exists that the destitution of the South has been greatly exaggerated, and that there is much less suffering and want than was at first expected. This is probably partially true. In all those parts of the South which are easily accessible by sea or railroad, and in those through which the army has simply passed, without remaining for any length of time, the condition of affairs is better than had been anticipated; the crops are good, and the prospect is, that with, perhaps, some assistance in the way of clothing, seed and implements, the people will get along. But in the interior of the South, where trade has not yet penetrated, and especially in the track of SHERMAN's army, there are regions where the desolation almost surpasses belief, and where relief must be afforded either by government or by the charities of the North, or thousands must die of hunger and exposure. In an official report of Hon. E. ROOT, agent of the American Union Commission, he declares that on a trip from Chattanooga to Atlanta he did not see as much food growing as would be found on an ordinary Northern farm. And another correspondent from Savannah, writes of naked human beings in adjoining counties, curling down at the roots of their chimney stacks for shelter.

The condition of the poor at Savannah (of whom there are over two thousand without food or means of employment) is such that a meeting of their citizens was not long since called, to consider what could be done for them, and one of their citizens, Mr. WILLIAM KING, was appointed to come North, and set the facts before the people here. About the same time Rev. JOHN H. CALDWELL, of the Methodist Conference, who was ejected from his pulpit by the Presiding Elder for an anti-slavery and loyal sermon, and reinstated again by order of the President, came North to set before them the moral, as well as the physical, wants of the people of Northern Georgia. Both gentlemen are strongly interested in the welfare of blacks as well as whites, and are vouched for by the highest authorities. As will be seen by reference to another column, both are to speak tomorrow night in Madison-avenue Baptist Church, by invitation of the American Union Commission, for the purpose of setting the facts in the case before our citizens. We trust they will receive an attentive and generous hearing.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—A spirited and excellent performance of "Martha" was enjoyed here last evening by a brilliant and overflowing audience. The cast was all that could be desired for this gay and graceful work. Miss KELLOGG is certainly a charming Martha. She invests the part with much vivacity, and sings the music with perfect facility. Miss ADELAIDE PHILLIPS shares these qualities with her fair associate, and is altogether a better Nancy than we have had for several years. Signor IRFRE and Signor ANTONUCCI were both very good as Lionel and Plunkett. The performance indeed was smooth and well balanced in all respects. It gave complete satisfaction to the audience, and could, we think, be repeated to advantage.

There will be a matinée to-day. "Ione" is the opera.

HERMANN.—HERMANN gives his last performance at the Academy of Music this evening.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—The RAVELS give a matinée at this house to-day. The programme is unusually full and interesting.

ARION SOCIETY.—The members of this flourishing and energetic society, give their first concert of the season to-night, at Irving Hall. There will be a full orchestra under the direction of Mr. CARL BERGMANN, and the members of the society will sing several pieces under the bâton of their own conductor, Mr. HARTMANN. RAFF's prize cantata is one of the principal novelties of the performance.

PAREPA.—Mr. MARETZEK, with his usual courtesy, has arranged two opportunities for the appearance next week of Mlle. PAREPA and the other members of Mr. BATEMAN's admirable concert troupe. The evenings are Tuesday and Wednesday, when in addition to the regular allowance of opera, there will be a miscellaneous musical entertainment. Mr. LEVY, the celebrated cornet-à-piston player, will make his New-York début at these entertainments. His success in Boston has been most enthusiastic.

THE ENGLISH TOURISTS.

A Day in the Metropolis—Visit to Public School No. 47—Wood's Minstrels Entertain Them—Interesting Occasion at the Rooms of the Traveler's Club.

The many private courtesies extended to Sir MORTON PETO and his fellow travelers by our citizens, are occasionally varied by demonstrations of a more public character, by which they are informed more thoroughly and minutely of the workings of our institutions and the customs of our country.

Yesterday morning, in company with one of our most appreciated artists, they visited the romantic grounds of Hoboken, after which, by invitation of the principal, they went to the public school in Twelfth-street, between Broadway and University-place—a school which stands foremost among its peers, and is justly considered one of the "institutions" of the city.

Owing to some misunderstanding of their route, the gentlemen were delayed some three-quarters of an hour past the appointed time, but at a few moments before 3 they reached the school. Mr. WINSER, of the TIMES, presented each in turn to Miss LYDIA F. WADLEIGH, the Principal of the Senior Department, and, subsequently, to the young ladies.

A fairer scene it would be difficult to find than that upon which these gentlemen were privileged to look. Some two hundred and fifty young women, ranging in years from sweet sixteen to the more matured twenty, of every type of womanly grace and beauty—brunette and blonde, petite and of larger growth—all bright-eyed, pleasant-faced, with radiant countenances and hospitable look. With the exception of the party of visitors, and Mr. BRISTOW, the musician, there was not a specimen of the sterner sex present, and the novelty of the occasion was hardly excelled by its charm.

After a hearty song of welcome which was beautifully sung by the entire room, and "Our Country 'Tis of Thee," Miss WADLEIGH said that if the visitors would like to hear one of the young ladies read a composition—wholly unprepared for this or any other extraordinary occasion—some one of them would gladly comply. Sir MORTON PETO replied for himself and friends that he would be most happy to listen, whereupon Miss WADLEIGH called upon a bright-eyed beauty on the first bench to read a composition, which had been written for the day's routine.

Miss CARRIE FITZ very kindly and gracefully responded to the somewhat embarrassing request, and read in a clear voice, and with fine modulation, an amusing illustration of her pursuit of astronomical knowledge under difficulties. The composition was wholly unpretentious, but well pointed, with dry witticisms and local allusions, which were readily and heartily appreciated by her companions, and relished by her stranger audience.

Miss GRUNDY recited with much feeling and with felicitous elocution a poetical selection which was greatly admired, after which the young ladies sang again, led and accompanied by Mr. GEO. F. BRISTOW on the piano.

Mr. GERARD, one of the trustees of the school, then made a few remarks to the scholars and introduced Sir MORTON PETO, who said:

YOUNG LADIES: On behalf of myself and friends, permit me to express to you our regret at the detention we experienced on our way hither, but being strangers entierly in your midst, we had no very clear idea of the place to which we were going nor the distance we were to travel. However, we are at length here, and heartily glad to see you. We have traveled to some considerable extent over your beautiful country, and return charmed and delighted with all we have seen. Met everywhere with the utmost cordiality and hospitality, we have received nothing but kindness and courtesy wherever we have been. And now that we are privileged to look upon and examine your system of education, we find much that is admirable, much, too, that we in England might adopt with advantage. We could but be delighted with the fair prospect before us, and we thank you heartily for your kind reception and the delightful entertainment offered us.

After another song by the young ladies, Mr. KILLSALL said:

YOUNG LADIES: I join cordially in the expressions of admiration and delight of Sir MORTON PETO. We have looked with wonder upon your magnificent country, its vast extent of territory, and the great advances made in every department of science and of art. We came here to-day to look upon the mode of education followed in your schools, and I confess we are most pleased and gratified. We have listened with pleasure to your singing and your reading, and congratulate you upon the evidences given of your skill and appreciation. We shall carry with us, I assure you, none but the kindliest memories of our tour among your people; and of the many pleasant recollections of the trip, this visit to your school, and the entertainment offered us, will rank among the foremost.

Mr. LILLO was then introduced by Mr. GERARD, and said in French:

YOUNG LADIES: I have looked with the deepest interest upon all that has taken place here to-day. I congratulate you that you live in a country where such things are not only possible but normal. In my own country, France, we are not yet so privileged; there are still bonds and barriers between the fullest education of our youth, which, however, we trust in time may be removed. I, in common with my companions, thank you for your courteous reception, and for the pleasure afforded us, and shall never fail to recall this occasion with emotions of pleasure and delight.

The visitors then wrote their autographs in the record-book, and after some conversation with the teacher, the party departed, before which, however, the young ladies were dismissed, marching out by benches to the music of a jolly quickstep.

In the evening they visited Wood's Minstrels, where a first rate programme was heartily enjoyed. Mr. WOOD having kindly added one or two plantation scenes for their information. They were of course amused by the performance, but were more than astonished at the evidences of popular approval and success attending this peculiarly American class of entertainment. The beauty of the house, its tasteful decoration and perfect ventilation were features somewhat different from those which they had supposed inseparable from a house devoted to "negro minstrelsy."

At night Sir MORNTON and his friends visited the TIMES newspaper establishment.

On Thursday evening the officers and members of entertained the party at the magnificent rooms of the club, corner of Fifth-avenue and West Fourteenth-street. On this occasion Mr. E. G. SQUIER, formerly United States Commissioner to Peru, delivered a very interesting and exhaustive address on the "Geographical Problems and Material Condition of Peru," in which he narrated many interesting personal experiences, and gave much valuable information concerning the mountain plateaux, the great water-basins, the monumental remains, the scenery, the railways, the water supply, and the soil. His observations about the material resources of the country, the existence of the guano islands, the revenue and the people, were of great interest and most suggestive.

The Hon. ROBERT J. WALKER, in proposing a vote of thanks, availed himself of the opportunity to compliment Mr. SQUIER, and alluded gracefully to the fact that their English guests and friends had been instrumental in causing the investment of over $50,000,000 in this country at a time when many of our own people were despondent and downhearted.

President DUNBAR then welcomed the English party in behalf of the club, and after explaining the objects of the organization, formally presented the gentlemen to the members of the club, who greeted them most cordially.

After the welcoming applause had subsided, Sir MORTON PETO thanked the club for its kindly greeting, and referred to the candid acknowledgment made by Mr. WALKER of the friendly feeling he had found among many people in England when the country was in peril. He expressed his delight with the manifestations of good will and welcome extended them at every step of their journey, and did not doubt that a narration of the many pleasant incidents attending their American trip would cause his friends at home to wish they had been of the party. The energy and consequent progress of the American people, as witnessed in every place he had visited, were really wonderful; but their effects, as seen in the West, were truly astonishing. Here had he found fine cities grown from what were a few years since only small and straggling villages. Such were the results of the Anglo-Saxon perseverance. During a conversation which he (Sir MORTON) had at one period with the King of Portugal, he took occasion to praise to His Majesty the magnificent scenery, climate and great fertility of his country; but the King replied, "Oh, I would freely exchange all you admire and value if my subjects possessed the energy and application of your people." Such is the difference between the condition of the inhabitants of the United States and those of Peru and its cause. He hoped that the American people would never forget what England and Englishmen had accomplished in former times, and he begged to assure them that the people of England, in or out of Parliament, were not really hostile to the cause of the Union during the late war. They were frequently misinformed and misled as to the resources and prospects of the North, and very many of them did truly imagine in consequence that the Union of the States was eternally broken. But this was mainly owing to the efforts of many Americans then resident in England, and the statements printed by very many American presses on this side of the ocean. When Americans labored thus in England, he would ask, was it to be wondered at that a number of Englishmen believed them, and thought that the United States Government had failed? He (Sir MORTON) was always of the opinion that there were as many friends of the Union to be found at one time in the City of London as could be had in New-York. Of this he spoke with a full knowledge. All was now at an end. Peace was restored, and he hoped would be maintained, as no man interested in the commerce and finance of Europe could be indifferent to the great results which would flow from the event. He wished to say to the Americans, now that his tour and that of his friends had come to a close, that he would like to see the Union of the States made solid and enduring by the linking of the Pacific Territory with that of the Atlantic by means of the iron bands of the railroad. There should be no more "rounding" or "crossing" by Panama, or attempts to convey by steam on that route the vast trade and travel which would ensue between the two sections of the country now that the war was ended. Then, as now, England and the United States would, he was confident, go hand in hand in pushing on the civilization of the old and new worlds.

At the conclusion of Sir MORTON's remarks, which were received with great enthusiasm, the party were severally introduced and subsequently joined the club in a substantial and enjoyable supper. The occasion was a memorable one in the history of the club, and doubtless will form an agreeable reminiscence in the American experiences of our English friends.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FAIR.

Lowe and His Balloon—Artificial-Leg Race.

Prof. LOWE and his balloon were at the great Fair last night; so were about three thousand pushing, jostling, curious people; so were half a dozen young women, who pounded unmercifully every piano in the hall, and made the roof weary with the echoes of their thumps.

At 8:30 o'clock the balloon was in a small compass and a somewhat crimpled condition; shortly after that it was very much larger, the gas generated by the Professor's chemicals being directed into the bag. It was held down upon the table by a slight cord, but restlessly swayed to and fro like an imprisoned eagle, or any other bird waiting for a chance to soar. Crowds of people gathered around the balloon and the Professor, of whom they asked all sorts of questions, ranging in variety from the profound to the absurd. The railing inclosing the table on which the balloon rested is bounded on the north by an apple stand, on the east by a case of elegant pistols, gold and silver mounted, by the National Arms Company of Brooklyn, on the south by PLANER & KAYSER's sewing machines, the sacred precincts of which, under the graceful charge of Miss PLAYFOOT, were invaded by the crowd, and on the west by a pyramid of fancy soap. Thereabouts waxed the proportions of the crowd until it became a multitude. They clamored for an ascension. Heeding the clamor, Prof. LOWE untied the string, and the inflated balloon went to the roof gracefully, easily and immediately. A small and very excited engine of half a horse power pulled the balloon down, and then let it go again—playing with it after the manner of a tantalizing cat with a struggling rat. It continued the operation an indefinite number of hours, greatly to the edification of men, women and children, who crowded about the place with eyes and mouth wide and curiously open.

In the meantime the brass band was playing vigorously on the platform; a baker's dozen of waterfalled girls were banging on the pianos; a young and excited musician was showing off the pipe organ; the machinery buzzed and whizzed; the steam whistle screeched; the sewing-machines rattled as fast (almost) as the tongues of the operators, and the entire fair was a perfect Babel of American ingenuity and exclamation.

To-day, at 3 and 8 o'clock P. M., there will be an interesting and novel by gentlemen who are so unfortunate as to need artificial limbs. Some who wear only one will contest with others of like mutilation; two-legged gentry will run a race of a mile that they may test the value of their several factories. The idea is novel. The experiment is interesting. The result will be decided to-night.

Dismissal of the Charges Against the Street-Cleaning Commissioners.

The following document has been issued by Gov. FENTON, in relation to the charges against the Street-cleaning Commissioners:

STATE OF NEW-YORK, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
ALBANY, Oct. 11.

In the matter of charges presented to the Governor of the State of New-York by JAMES GREGORY, against MATTHEW T. BRENNAN, Comptroller of the City of New-York, and other city officials, constituting a board of commissioners, &c.

It is charged in this case that the respondents being authorized by the act of the Legislature of the State of New-York, passed May 1, 1865, to make a contract for cleaning the streets of New-York for a term of not less than five years with the person or persons whose proposals should, in the judgment of the commissioners, or a majority of them, secure the most effective service and be most advantageous to the public interests, did willfully and corruptly disobey and disregard the provisions and requirements of said act, and did willfully and corruptly, in pretended "compliance with the said act, but actually in subversion and violation thereof, make a contract with persons for cleaning the streets of New-York for a term of ten years, whose proposals were not, as the said commissioners well knew, the most advantageous to the public interests, or likely to secure the most effective service; and did willfully and corruptly plan and consummate a fraudulent and wasteful job for the purpose of securing personal and pecuniary benefits to the said commissioners, or some of them, and of illegally and improperly enriching persons who are their dependents or associates, and did in other respects willfully and corruptly misuse and abuse the power conferred upon them."

These grave and serious charges were presented by Mr. JAMES GREGORY, and were verified by him.

The Comptroller and other city officials charged with misconduct appeared, and severally and explicitly, under oath, denied the charges.

All the witnesses produced have been patiently heard, the testimony and arguments of counsel have been carefully considered by me. Indeed, I have brought to the investigation of the whole subject all that attention and thought that the gravity of the charges, the official position of the respondents, and the ability of the distinguished counsel upon both sides required at my hands.

The power to remove certain officials, for misconduct or malversation in office, was vested in the Governor of the State for wise purposes; it is a high and responsible power, and it should only be exercised upon clear, positive and undoubted proof of misconduct. In this case it is clear to me that the evidence is wholly insufficient to justify me in its exercise.

I therefore dismiss the charges.

R. E. FENTON.

THE CHARGES AGAINST COMPTROLLER BRENNAN.

STATE OF NEW-YORK EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
ALBANY, Oct. 11, 1865.

In the matter of charges presented to the Governor of the State of New-York by ANSON HERRICK and SEVERN D. MOULTON against MATTHEW T. BRENNAN, Comptroller of the City of New-York.

Being desirous of proceeding without unnecessary delay in the investigation of the charges above named, I appoint Thursday, the 19th day of October, 1865, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Executive Chamber, in the City of Albany, for the hearing thereof.

Counsel having expressed a desire to be heard upon the sufficiency of the charges and the papers submitted, until arguments thereon shall be presented and this question decided, the production of witnesses will be unnecessary.

R. E. FENTON.

FIRES.—Between 7 and 8 o'clock yesterday morning, a bedroom in Mr. JOHN FLYNN's dwelling, in Third-avenue, between Eightieth and Eighty-first streets, was burned, fire having been kindled by matches with which Mr. FLYNN's daughter had been playing.... At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the third story of No. 222 Sixth-street was damaged to the extent of about $500 by fire of accidental origin. The occupant, Mr. PATRICK FITZPATRICK, has no insurance. JAMES REILLY, occupant of the bakery in the cellar, suffers loss by water, but is insured in the Merchants' office. The building, which may be repaired for $300, is owned by Dr. O'REILLY, and is insured by the Bowery companies.

Mount Hood in a State of Irruption—The Pacific Railroad Company—Progress of the Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, Wednesday, Oct. 11.

Mount Hood, Oregon, has been in a state of eruption since Sept. 23, which it is supposed had some connection with the recent earthquake in California, although the central part of this State only felt the shock.

The Sacramento Union says the Central Pacific Railroad Company has laid its plans for next year's survey. They have developed a better line over the mountains than was anticipated. The directors, after a full consideration of the work before them, concluded they can and will lay a track to Trucker River, on the eastern slope of Sierra Nevada, 118 miles from Sacramento, before next year. They have given the necessary orders to effect the object.

Great Floods in Japan—Movement of the Tycoon Against the Rebellious Prince Choisa.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, Oct. 10.

News from Kanagawa, Japan, to the last of August, has been received. A private letter from Nagasaki says heavier floods recently occurred between Asaca and Hiago than are recorded during the last 130 years. Serious losses were sustained.

Advices from Osacca to July 31st report the movements of the Tycoon against the rebellious Prince CHOSIA. The expedition was rapidly organizing. It was the general opinion that it would soon move toward the seat of operations.

Business at Kanagawa was quiet.

Bellevue Hospital Commissioners of Public Charities.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The Commissioners of Public Charities are building at Bellevue Hospital a Medical College at the expense of the city. It is under the guise of a house for the treatment of outdoor poor, but it is furnished with lecture rooms, and all the appurtenances of a college, such as a Chemical Laboratory, &c. Now, as one of the taxpayers of the city, I want to know from the Commissioners by what authority they are doing this. If the citizens are to be taxed in this way, for objects in which they have no kind of interest, it seems to me that their case is perfectly hopeless.

TAXPAYER.

EXERCISE.—The ancient Grecians were noted for their agility, strength and great powers of endurance. The English women of the present time are celebrated for their robust and healthy appearance, the result, in both instances, of vigorous and healthy exercise. The Americans, unfortunately, have but little taste for this method of retaining their health or building up a broken constitution; hence the great prevalence of weak, sickly and delicate men and women. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS will in a great measure palliate this want of exercise, by giving great strength to the digestive organs: hence producing a good appetite and a vigorous feeling of body. A moderate degree of exercise, however, used in connection with the Bitters, is much better; the most desperate case of dyspepsia, liver complaint, nervous debility, yielding quickly to their beneficial influence. All druggists have these Bitters for sale. They contain no alcohol.—Boston Post.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC!
ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON,
THE CELEBRATED APPARATUS.

From the New-York Express.

So many able and earnest men are devoting themselves to medical investigation, that it would be strange if new discoveries were not made. Among the most brillant of these—we may indeed say the most brilliant of all—is that of Dr. VON EISENBERG, in regard to the Etherealization of Medicines: we may properly call it the "Spiritualization," since the Latin Spiritus, whence comes our word "Spiritual," signifies primarily, simply, 'the air."

Many of the most important and vital organs of the human frame cannot be reached by medicines in a solid or even in a liquid form. Thus the lungs are shut up in a bony chest to which access can be had only through the wind-pipe, the opening of which is closed by a valve, called the "epiglottis," so sensitive and so delicately constructed, that it will not allow the passage, except by main force, of the most minute crumb, or the smallest drop of liquid. Every person who has "swallowed the wrong way" the smallest substance, whether of liquid or solid, knows the feeling of strangulation thereby occasioned. A man cannot, if he would, voluntarily swallow any liquid or solid into the lungs, or the passage leading to them. Herein lies the true reason why Consumption has been so incurable.

As to the entire apparatus, we have no hesitation in saying that we regard it as a wonderful invention—one that, were it not so costly, we have little doubt would be adopted by every hospital and medical college in the country. We are satisfied it would well repay, even if he had to journey all the way from Europe, the scientific man to see and examine it. It is a marvel of mechanical complexity, and yet, when its multiform uses are considered, of extreme simplicity and great beauty. That it will in every respect fulfill the expectations of the inventor, we have every reason to believe. It has been constructed with an accurate knowledge of its ultimate uses. One so experienced in the specialities for which it is particularly intended as is Dr. Von Eisenberg, and for which he has long felt the necessity in his practice, could make no failure. With it he is enabled to surmount obstacles that were hitherto deemed all but impossible to control. He can now approach with certainty and diagnose thoroughly every disease that, in the course of his extended practice, he aims to master.* To those, therefore, who are in any way afflicted with loss of sight or hearing, with catarrh, bronchitis, [chest or lung diseases, we earnestly suggest a visit to the consulting apartments of Dr. VON EISENBERG. There he will be speedily made to know the possibility of a cure in even complicated cases. We hereto observe that the apparatus is intended also to bring the etherealized medicines into direct action upon the nerves. The nervous system is the source of many diseases. All physicians admit this, and all profess at least to be able to apply a remedy. The Allopathic, Homeopathic and Hydropathic, by prescribing opiates, anodynes, &c., may, and do, alleviate the pain arising from impaired or diseased nerves; but this does not restore the nerve, it is only temporary relief—a relief, too, to some one nerve at the expense of the entire system. The Æsthetico-Neuralgicon of Dr. Von Eisenberg not merely allays the irritation, but restores the nerve to its normal condition. The Doctor's theory is, that each nerve has a specific office, and has its own peculiar susceptibility. Thus, for example, the nerve of vision is insensible to touch; and, on the other hand, the nerve of touch is insensible to light, and so on through the whole system.

From the Journal of Commerce.

We think it is but just to Dr. Von Eisenberg to call public attention to him. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, if not actually praying for death, who are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is in his power to make them whole or not.

HEARING RESTORED BY A SINGLE APPLICATION OF THE ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON.
READ! READ!

NEW-YORK, May 4, 1865.

I have been induced, by the great number of certificates continually published in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's skill, to apply to him for advice concerning my deafness of many years' standing. I placed myself under his care, and to my utmost delight he made me hear perfectly well by a single painless application of Dr. Von Eisenberg's "Æsthetico-Neuralgicon." I have great pleasure in being able to state that his skill in restoring hearing surpasses anything I ever saw or heard of. His attention to the patient is highly commendable.

JOHN WAKELY, No. 104 Monroe-st.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF THE CHRONIC CATARRH, ASSUMING THE FORM OF CONSUMPTION.

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, and a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting of blood. I have been treated by many eminent physicians without success. Recently the Catarrh became so offensive that I could not go into society. Hearing of DR. VON EISENBERG'S new invention, I thought I would apply to him as a last resource. Having been satisfied with his diagnosis, I submitted to his treatment, and have every reason to be abundantly satisfied, as I am completely cured, and my health so much renovated that I feel better than I felt for the last fifteen years. It is a blessing that experience gives the Doctor the power to restore such a shattered constitution to perfect vigor. I now feel very happy to be able to give this testimonial in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's inimitable skill.

RESTORATION OF SIGHT.

I, Lawrence Grenna, No. 186 East 36th-st., New-York City, have been suffering from blindness of the left eye for a considerable period. The eye was continually in a state of great inflammation, from which the good eye became affected, and, indeed, my general health was greatly injured by it. Hearing of Dr. Von Eisenberg's great reputation, and as every one said mine was a hopeless case, I called on the Doctor, who, after examining me, undertook my case, and within a fortnight I found myself almost completely cured. It is now a month since I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's treatment, and I am happy to be able to state that the inflammation is entirely gone, so that I see perfectly with both eyes, added to which I am in good health—a blessing I have not enjoyed since I was blind. I do conscientiously and gratefully swear to the above statement, in a court of justice, at the City Hall of the City of New-York, the 10th day of October, 1864.

LAWRENCE GRENNA.

Sworn before me this 10th day of October, 1864.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

From the Round Table.

One of the daintiest of forthcoming volumes is an illustrated edition of "Æsop's Fables," from the press of Hurd & Houghton, who have had it in press for a year past. Its specialty is the engravings, of which there are one hundred and eleven, from designs by Herrick. The majority of these consist of birds and beasts, and are among the best of the kind, if indeed, they are not the best, ever attempted in this country.

LIFE AND CHARACTER OF
J. H. VAN DER PALM, D. D.,
Professor of Oriental Languages and Antiquities; also, of Sacred Poetry and Eloquence in the University of Leyden.
SKETCHED BY NICHOLAAS BEETS, D. D.
Translated from the Dutch,
By J. P. WESTERVELT.
COMENDATORY NOTICES RECEIVED BY THE AUTHOR.

From Rev. Thomas De Witt, D. D.

There is no name held in high reputation more distinguished than that of Van der Palm. I cordially commend the proposed volume to the patronage of the Christian public.

From Rev. Alex. T. McGill, D. D.

The exposition of the text is admirable, and would be a model of great value against motto preaching in the modern pulpit. Criticism in homiletic discourse seems to have reached its perfection in Van der Palm.

From Rev. G. W. T. Shedd, D. D.

It is a valuable contribution to literary biography and sacred rhetoric.

PROPOSALS FOR FUNDING
CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS, COMPOUND INTEREST NOTES AND TREASURY NOTES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 29, 1865. }

By virtue of the authority contained in the first section of an act of Congress entitled "An Act to provide ways and means to support the Government," approved March 3, 1865, which provides, among other things, that any Treasury Notes, or other obligations bearing interest issued under any act of Congress, may, at the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury, and with the consent of the holder, be converted into any description of bonds authorized by said act, notice is hereby given to the holders of Certificates of Indebtedness which mature before the 1st day of January next, of Compound Interest Notes, and of one and two year Treasury Notes, of the readiness of this department to give in exchange for them, to the extent of fifty millions of dollars, six per cent. Five-Twenty Year Bonds at three per cent. premium; that is to say, one hundred dollars of bonds for each one hundred and three dollars in certificates and notes; provided the conversion is made prior to the 1st day of November next.

The bonds issued in exchange for such certificates and notes will bear an interest of six per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually in coin, upon the first days of May and November, and will be redeemable at the pleasure of the government after five years, and payable in twenty years from the first day of November, 1865.

The coupon and registered bonds issued under this proposal will be of the denominations of one hundred, five hundred and one thousand dollars. Registered bonds of five thousand and ten thousand dollars will be issued if desired.

Holders of certificates, compound interest or Treasury notes, who desire to make such conversions, will deliver them to the Treasurer, the Assistant Treasurers or the designated depositaries of the United States, or to any national depositary bank which may consent to transact the business without charge.

Interest will be allowed on certificates of indebtedness, and one and two-year Treasury notes matured or maturing prior to the first of November, 1865, up to the date of maturity, and when maturing after the first of November, interest will be allowed to that day.

Upon the compound interest notes the interest will be computed to November 1, 1865, upon the amount of principal and interest compounded on the back of said notes, from the period next prior to that date.

The principal and interest of such Treasury Notes and obligations will be considered together as an offer for conversion, but when, after deducting the principal of the Bonds, and three per cent. premium, there remains a fractional part of one hundred dollars, this fractional part will be paid to the depositor.

The Secretary reserves to himself the right of withdrawing this proposal at any time prior to said first day of November, provided fifty millions of dollars shall, prior to that date, be offered for conversion as aforesaid.

Circulars of instructions will be transmitted to the various officers authorized to receive certificates and notes, to which attention is invited.

H. McCULLOCH, Secretary of the Treasury.

is directed to their
PATENT AGRAFFE ARRANGEMENT.

The value and importance of this invention having been practically tested, in all their grands and highest-price square Piano-fortes, and admitted to be the greatest improvement of modern times, they now announce that they have determined to introduce their "Patent Agraffe Arrangement" in every Piano-forte manufactured by them, without increase of cost to the purchaser, in order that all their patrons may reap the full advantage of this great improvement.

Extract from the testimonial of the most distinguished Artists to STEINWAY & SONS:

Among the chief points of the uniform excellence of the STEINWAY Pianos are:

Greatest possible depth, richness and volume of tone, combined with a rare brilliancy, clearness, and perfect evenness throughout the entire scale, and, above all, a surprising duration of sound, the pure and sympathetic quality of which never changes under the most delicate or powerful touch.

We therefore consider the STEINWAY Pianos in all respects the best instruments made in this country or in Europe, use them solely and exclusively ourselves in public or private, and recommend them invariably to our friends and the public.

FRIDAY, Oct. 13—P. M.

The price of Gold is ½@¾ per cent. weaker than yesterday, and the speculation dull at 144⅝@¾ ₩ cent. The California steamer, day before yesterday, delivered about a million of dollars in Gold bars out of the Treasure list of $1,362,000. Part of these bars have been taken for export, and the remainder will probably be transhipped to London on account of the receivers here, in preference to incurring the expense and delay of coinage at Philadelphia, which would be equal to about ¾ ₩ cent. The French steamer took out $219,300 to-day. There was more business done in Exchange to-day for Saturday's steamers than for the packets of Wednesday and Friday. The rates were 109@109¼ on London, and f5.18¾@f5.17½ on Paris.

The market for Money to the Stock Brokers, after the tight squeeze of yesterday afternoon, reopened with all the appearances of another sharp demand, but by 2 o'clock the Brokers had quite generally made up their wants, though not without some heavy sales of the Railways for cash at the early session of the Stock Exchange at reduced prices. Before the Second Board met at 2:30 P. M., there was quite a rally from the lowest sales on the Street. The heaviest sacrifices of the day were on Cleveland and Pittsburgh Stock, which, after touching 85@88 on the recent upward turn, was redistributed to new parties this morning at 80@78½@76½ ₩ cent. The reaction from the very cheapest sales was 1½@2 ₩ cent.

In other departments of the Stock Exchange list the want of Money was not so sensibly felt, and Government Securities were again in request and generally at full rates.

At the Second Board and after the general market was on the recovery, and at 4 o'clock the following quotations were made as compared with Thursday afternoon. The largest improvement on the Railways was felt soon after the Second Board broke up, partly on the rumor of a later arrival from Europe favorable to American Stocks. Upon its contradiction Erie and some other Stocks partially fell back. Gold a fraction firmer at close.

The receipts of Cotton, this week, at New-York, for five days only, reach the large figure of 30,628 bales—equal in value to about $9,000,000 in Currency and over $6,000,000 in Gold. The demand for export is met with some freedom by holders, and the increased outward movement, so long anticipated, is now being realized.

The Customs duties have fallen off from the large receipts of last week about a million and a half of dollars. The income is, nevertheless, quite heavy for the month of October, and threefold greater, thus far, than the corresponding month last year.

The Coal tonnage of the Reading Road this week, Anthracite and Bituminous, is reported by telegraph at 89,000 tons.

The Tribune Money article of this morning says:

> "The English capitalists have had another conference upon the management of the Erie Railway Company, of which they are not the managers as yet. Their visit was announced as making certain a thorough reorganization of the concern and better management. They have the power to make a new route to the seaboard, but that is a different affair from dictating the policy of a road of which the Great Western is only a feeder."

It is due to our English visitors connected with the Atlantic and Great Western, to say that the above is a gross (though, perhaps, unintentional) misrepresentation of a very respectful memorial, through their American President, Mr. S. S. L'HOMMEDIEU, of Cincinnati, addressed to the Erie Direction. In the absence of Mr. L'HOMMEDIEU, the Erie Directors were yesterday met in friendly conference by Sir MORTON PETO and Mr. MCHENRY, not on the reform of the Erie management, (a matter with which they mean to have nothing to do,) but on the propositions of the memorial referred to, to consolidate the running arrangements of the two broad-gauge roads, and to double track the Erie line from New-York to its Atlantic and Great Western connection at Salamanca, with English means; all on terms as free from dictation as they certainly are from any purpose to take the Erie out of American control. A further interview will, we suppose, take place on the arrival of Mr. L'HOMMEDIEU from the West.

The day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States was as follows: Receipts, $5,136,590 52; including for Customs, $277,000; payments, $7,360,888 73; on account of Loan, $161,000; balance, $67,398,649 41.

REV. DANIEL T. WOOD, Middletown, N. Y., writes: "By the use of Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Hair Dressing the hair has greatly thickened upon my head, and put on a very healthy appearance. The same is true of my daughter; her hair had become thin and came out constantly, until we thought the head would be almost bare; her hair has handsomely thickened up, and also has a healthful appearance."

Renewed his Age.

REV. M. THATCHER, of New-York, in a letter, says: "My age is sixty. One year ago my hair was very gray and falling. I used Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer according to directions, and now my hair is restored to its natural color, and has ceased to fall. The Zylobalsamum I have found the best and most agreeable hair dressing I have ever used."

Valuable Testimony.

REV. A. WEBSTER, Boston, Mass., writes: "I have used, through the advice of personal friends, Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum, for several months past, with great effect and entire satisfaction. I am now neither bald nor gray; my hair was dry and brittle, but has regained the softness of its earlier years."

For Children's Hair.

MRS. CLARK, wife of Rev. D. W. Clark, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "I have used Mrs. S. A. Allen's Zylobalsamum with much satisfaction in dressing my own and children's hair. After trying various articles, I feel no hesitation in recommending yours as the best I have ever used. It gives the hair a soft, glossy appearance, and retains it in any position desired."

His Wife Approves.

REV. I. MOORE, late agent American Bible Union, writes: "I have used Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Hair Dressing, and it has also been used by my wife. We unqualifiedly pronounced them the best preparations we have ever used—in which declaration many friends join us."

A Fine Head of Hair.

REV. J. H. CORNELL, New-York City, says in a letter: "I procured Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum for a relative. I am happy to say it prevented the falling off of the hair, and restored it from being gray to its natural glossy and beautiful black."

Get the Best.

REV. C. A. BUCKBEE, Treasurer of the American Bible Union, New-York, writes: "I very cheerfully add my testimony to that of numerous other friends, to Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum. The latter I have found superior to anything I have ever used."

Valuable Articles.

REV. J. WEST, No. 6 Washington-place, Pacific-st., Brooklyn, L. I., says, in a letter: "I am happy to bear my testimony to the value and efficacy of Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and World's Hair Dressing, in the most liberal sense. They have restored my hair where it was bald, and where gray, to its original color."
